

Dear FCC:

I strongly oppose any interference, proposed or otherwise to alter my ability to receive signals from XM or other satellite radio. I rely on XM Radio to give me fast, up-to-date information in my travels for my job. I travel to 20 military bases in California and signal reception and local programming content is very poor in some of the more isolated areas. I rely on VERY frequent traffic information while passing Los Angeles; a receivable station broadcasts fewer updates than XM.

Don't let a group of broadcasters who are not heard by the majority of us listeners influence decisions made of free choice.

Thank you,

Bruce Hillman
